Hi Daniel,

This Draft Final/Final IAAAP Aerial Radiological Survey Report is dated July 10, 2003. Now I see the reason for your confusion. The letter you have attached says that the document became final on August 21, 2003. However, we do not have a separate document dated August 21, 2003. The Draft Final version of the document was submitted to EPA on July 21, 2003. Per our FFA, if the EPA does not dispute the document, it becomes final in 30 days. The cover letter submitting the document to EPA on July 21, 2003 indicates that it would become final on August 21, 2003. Therefore, this document is Final, even though it is titled "Draft Final".

I realize this is kind of confusing and now we take an extra administrative step to send out replacement covers and spines to reflect the Final status if EPA accepts a Draft Final document without dispute. However, in the past that wasn't always done.

I hope this helps.

thanks - Sara

Good morning Sara,

Thanks for your reply. I actually found a copy of the Recon Survey report this morning. The issue that we are having with the IAAAP Rad Survey Report is that the date on the document that you directed me to does not match the cover letter that I sent you. Please let me know if you have any information as to why the date is different.

Thanks,
Daniel

Hi Daniel, the letter you attached is in regards to the Rad Survey Report...since we already directed you to this report. I think you were going to attach a cover letter in regards to a Recon Survey Report for L-37-1, 37-2, and 37-3...correct?

thanks!
Sara
