Heart of the Wild, Heart of the Child

WildHeart, the Emmy-Award winning duo of Jan and George Syrigos, will perform at the National Great Rivers Museum on Thursday, September 8 from 6 – 8 pm. This program is part of the museum's summer series, Flock to the Lock, held every 2nd Thursday from May through September.

WildHeart uses a variety of wacky tunes to capture audiences throughout the United States, entertaining and educating kids of all ages. Their science-based, highly interactive performances are packed with facts and fun about our natural world. Kids can squirm to the music during Buzzy Wuzzy Buggy Boogie, wiggle through the Armadillo Alphabet, and gross out their parents with Scit, Scat, Diddly Doo! This event is free and open to the public.

This is the last program in the Flock to the Lock summer program series, presented by the Meeting of the Rivers Foundation. Meet at the National Great Rivers Museum to enjoy some quality time with the whole family!

The National Great Rivers Museum is located at 2 Lock and Dam Way, East Alton, IL 62024, just off Route 143, 2 miles east of the Clark Bridge. Call (618) 462-6979 for more information.
